KIDNAP RANSOM TALKS REACH CRISIS

Britain Demands Neutrality Reply

Reich-Italy Asked For Statement at Once on Spain

Great Britain Insists Two Countries Not Later Than Saturday Answer Proposal to Ban Volunteers From Iberian Peninsula

Naval Blockade Reports in Paris

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Paris, Jan. 6.—Reports here today said that if German and Italian replies to the British demand for a non-intervention in Spain answer should be unfavorable, France and Great Britain would order a naval blockade of the Spanish coast to enforce strict neutrality.

London, Jan. 6 (Canadian Press).—Great Britain demanded today Germany and Italy answer her proposal to ban volunteers from Spain by Saturday at the latest.

Great stress was laid in diplomatic circles on what was described as the "unusual" tone of the British note, according to the Associated Press. Coincidentally with the dispatch of the note, the Admiralty ordered a reshuffling of British naval strength in Spanish waters. The manoeuvre, which would have the effect of materially strengthening the British fleet around Spain for a few days, was described, however, as "routine."

The Havas News Agency said the battleship Queen Elizabeth and the cruisers Arethusa and Devonshire had been ordered from Malta to the western Mediterranean; that officially the orders were given to aid evacuation of refugees from Spain, but that it was understood they were a precautionary measure following on recent international naval incidents in Spanish waters.

DISPOSITION OF FORCES

The new line-up of British naval vessels in Spanish waters, according to Havas, was to be as follows:

At Barcelona: the flotilla-leader Grenville; at Valencia the destroyers Greyhound and Gloworm and the supply ship Resource; at Alicante the destroyer Griffin; at Palma de Majorca the cruiser Arethusa; the battleship Barham and the destroyer Grenadier; at Cartagena the destroyer Grafton; at Malaga the destroyer Gallant; at Tangier the battlecruiser Hood; at Gibraltar the battlecruiser Hood.

Paris, Jan. 6.—France was reported today considering the dispatch of troops to the Pyrenees Mountains to guard her undefended Spanish frontier against the implied threat of massed German volunteers in Spain.

A source close to the Foreign Ministry, according to the Associated Press, said the French and British destroyers Griffin; at Palma de Majorca the cruiser Arethusa; the battleship Barham and the destroyer Grenadier; at Cartagena the destroyer Grafton; at Malaga the destroyer Gallant; at Tangier the battlecruiser Hood; at Gibraltar the battlecruiser Hood.

Warships Added; No Abandonment of Patrol; Soviet Ship Seized

Berlin, Jan. 6.—Germany has no intention of abandoning her patrol of Spanish water, it was indicated today, although she has marked the Spanish government's seizure of the freighter Palos a closed incident.

The pocket battleship Admiral Scheer and the cruiser Nuremberg were prepared to sail from Kiel, it was learned to relieve two of the warships now in the Bay of Biscay to prevent "acts of piracy" on German merchantmen.

RUSSIAN SHIP SEIZED

Associated Press
Gibraltar, Jan. 6.—The Russian steamship Bal-Morcanal, en route from Rotterdam to the Island of Elba, was halted today in the Strait of Gibraltar by an armed Spanish insurgent trawler and conducted to Ceuta, Spanish Morocco.

The report was confirmed by Lloyd's in London.

An unconfirmed report broadcast by the insurgent radio station at Seville also declared an insurgent warship had seized a government vessel loaded with 600 tons of potatoes bound for Bilbao.

Newspapers of United Kingdom Join in Criticism of Agreement

Canadian Press from Havas
London, Jan. 6.—The British press joined today in criticism against the government's new agreement with Italy.

"The more we look at the Ital-British agreement the less we like it," The London News-Chronicle, Liberal, said. "The only excuse for reaching an agreement with Italy would have been an assurance by H. D. Macmillan that he intended to co-operate wholeheartedly in a policy of non-intervention in Spain."

The London Times declared: "Far from advancing that revival of confidence of which the British-Italian declaration was to be the diplomatic instrument, the Rome government's failure to withhold extra reinforcements from General Franco has made a discouraging and damaging impression."

EXPLANATION CALLED FOR

"Some further explanation by the British government of the agreement is imperatively necessary," said The London Daily Herald. "Spokesmen for the Italian and German governments are openly declaring that Britain is against a government victory" (in Spain).

Ss. Mar Cantabrico Gets Away From New York For Spain With Planes For Loyalists While Legislators Debate Ban

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 6.—The Spanish freighter Mar Cantabrico was allowed to proceed with her cargo of war materials for Spain today after Commander J. S. Baylis, by wireless, had ordered her stopped off Sandy Hook.

A coastguard plane and a police plane flew out from Floyd Bennett Field. Before they left the pilots told field officers they had orders from Washington to halt the Mar Cantabrico, heading for sea with a load of airplanes and war material for the Spanish loyalist forces.

The Mar Cantabrico had sailed for Cartagena, Spain, at 1:45 p.m. today, in her race to leave the United States with war materials before new embargo legislation could be passed in Congress.

Frozen Firemen Battle Blazes

Wind and Ice Added to Difficulties of Firemen Fighting Twenty-eight Outbreaks, Nineteen of Them in Four Hours; All Equipment in City Out at Once

Victoria's firemen were this morning resting up after the heaviest day's work in the memory of Fire Chief Alex Munro, who has been twenty-seven years with the department.

Between 8 o'clock yesterday morning and 11 o'clock last night the department answered twenty-eight calls and two false alarms. Nineteen of the calls were between 5 and 9 o'clock..

The whole of the city's fire equipment, including spare machines, was on the streets at certain times. The thirty men on the regular shift had to be supplemented by others called back from their rest periods.

The worst possible weather conditions, a high wind and a low temperature, made the firefighters' work difficult.

Several times the wind, tearing shingles off burning roofs and carrying sparks for many blocks, threatened to turn small chimney and roof blazes into serious fires.

COVERED IN ICE

Water pumped by the engines was frozen soon after it had fallen. Firemen covered from head to foot in icicles tripped and skidded on pavements covered with thin sheets of ice as they tended their ice-encrusted machines.

As the engines returned to their stations there was no time for the men to get properly thawed out. Often new calls sent them off again even before the trucks had come to rest.

In Saanich and Esquimalt the problem was not such a serious one. The Saanich department attended five fires during the afternoon and (Turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

Roosevelt Urges Courts Buttress U.S. Democracy

President, Addressing Congress, Points Out How Militarism Has Leaped Forward in Many Other Countries

Washington, Jan. 6.—President Roosevelt summoned the United States courts today to do their part "in making democracy successful" within the framework of the constitution at a time when "militarism has leaped forward" abroad.

Addressing a joint session of the new Congress, opened yesterday, the President said:

"The vital need is not alteration of our fundamental law, but an increasingly enlightened view with reference to it."

"We do not ask the courts to call non-existent powers into being, but we have a right to expect that conceded powers or those legitimately implied shall be made an effective instrument for the common good."

"The process of our democracy must not be impeded by the denial of essential powers of free government."

OBJECTIVES SOUND

Before the heavily Democratic Congress, the Chief Executive asserted that "the broad objectives" of the NRA were "sound," adding:

"The statute of NRA has been outlawed. The problems have not. They are still with us."

The President did not mention the Supreme Court by name, but he said at one point:

"Because all of us believe that our

Twelve Degrees of Frost Recorded Here This Morning, After Northerly Gale Drops; Skating Not Yet Safe on Deep Lakes

Young people dug out skates and extra clothing and prepared to enjoy their favorite winter pastime on shallow ponds in the vicinity of Victoria and on lakes in the higher altitudes.

But cold as it was here last night, Victoria was still the warmest spot in the province.

In Prince George it was thirty degrees below zero this morning—fifty degrees colder than Victoria. All across the Prairies it was bad—and there was a wind blowing there, too.

The larger lakes about Victoria are not sufficiently frozen for skating, because of the high wind, but if the cold weather continues without the wind, there will probably be skating on these lakes in a day or two.

Goodacre Lake in Beacon Hill Park was not safe for skating, a number of children found, much to their dismay, this morning when they stopped to investigate when on their way to school.

While many domestic water systems were turned off last night as precautionary measures, any number of householders were "caught napping" and this morning arose to find pipes frozen solid. Unable to light kitchen ranges, they were forced to cook breakfast on gas and electric plates or over living-room fireplaces.

The high wind reached gale-like velocity late yesterday evening, blowing in gusts at fifty miles an hour. It tore down fences in many parts of the city and a number of stores lost large plate glass windows.

There were twelve degrees of frost at 5 o'clock this morning. Because of brilliant sunshine the temperature rose to twenty-six degrees at noon.

The wind blew steadily from the north and northeast for eighteen hours and averaged thirty-three miles an hour, Mr. Thorn said.

A change to milder weather is expected tomorrow evening, with possibly a little snow or some rain. Conditions should then return speedily to normal.

Edmonton, Jan. 6.—A new financial system for Alberta, which would apply for the first time anywhere in the world, the social credit theories of Major C. H. Douglas, has been recommended to the Alberta government.

The Social Credit planning committee which Premier Aberhart appointed three weeks ago has laid down eleven guiding principles which, if put into effect by legislation, would be unique anywhere in the world. The report is being considered by the Premier and his cabinet, who so far have arrived at no decision on its acceptability.

deristic form of government can cope adequately with modern problems as they arise, it is patriotic as well as logical for us to prove that we can meet new national needs with new laws consistent with the historic constitutional framework clearly intended to receive equal and not narrow interpretations."

BROAD OUTLINE

Mr. Roosevelt confined his message to a broad outline of future problems, saying he would have specific recommendations later. But he said immediate action was needed to extend the neutrality law to cover the civil strife in Spain; to extend expiring statutes (such as his monetary powers and the Reconstruction Corporation) and to make deficiency appropriations for relief purposes.

MORE NEW HOUSES

Among "far-reaching problems" needing solution, the President included:

A housing "menace" of habitations failing to provide the physical benefits of modern civilization.

Aid for tenant farmers to become self-supporting.

Improvement and broadening of the social security system.

Unemployment.

The President said he would discuss unemployment with Congress later, adding:

"The broader task of preventing unemployment is a matter of long range evolutionary policy. To that we must continue to give our best thought and effort."

Mr. Roosevelt termed overproduction, under-production and speculation the "three evil sisters who distill the troubles of unsound inflation and disastrous deflation," adding:

"It is to the interest of the nation to have government help private enterprise to gain sound general price levels and to protect those levels from wide, pernicious fluctuations."

Asserting the World War had set up many oligarchies in place of democracies, he said: "In oligarchies militarism has leaped forward, while in those nations which have retained democracy, militarism has waned."

It was high time for democracy to assert itself, he added.

Sixteen tri-motored bombers, escorted by twenty-four pursuit planes, bombed Socialist lines in the northwestern University City area and near Las Rosas, ten miles northwest of the capital.

N.H.A. ACT IN BACKGROUND

It has always been understood the British North America Act, the written constitution of the country, gave the Dominion Government full and exclusive control over currency, banking and legal tender. If Alberta goes ahead and issues money of its own, a constitutional crisis might result of major importance.

FORCES ARE SENT

Government forces were dispatched today to Las Rosas sector to bolster defence of the vital El Escorial highway.

Insurgent troops were known to have gained a foothold on the important communication line to the Guadarramas in a new attempt to drive a wedge through the besieged capital's western defences.

BRIGADES OF GERMANS

A War Office communiqué from the southern front said insurgent Moors and legionnaires who escaped to government lines from the Jaen province town of Villa Harta reported Spanish officers were almost entirely replaced by Germans throughout Andalusia.

"Whole brigades are formed by Germans," the bulletin said government commanders were told.

REPORT HEIGHTS TAKEN

Associated Press Insurgent Headquarters Outside Madrid. Jan. 6.—Insurgent artillery units occupied the heights of Mount Guadarrama today, isolating Madrid from its Guadarrama forces by controlling El Escorial highway below.

General Francisco Franco's insurgents scaled the heights with heavy cannon after defeating Socialist troops in a three-day battle in which 620 government soldiers were said to have been counted dead on the field.

New field headquarters were established just off El Escorial highway, about fifteen miles northwest of Madrid.

Madrid, Jan. 6 (Canadian Press from Havas).—Eighteen thousand Germans are now engaged in the insurgent siege of this capital, Gen. Jose Maja, defence junta chief, charged tonight.

DIRECT PLEDGE NEEDED

The Manchester Guardian said the government should not have concluded the agreement with Rome unless it had received its pledge that Italy would cease to intervene in the Spanish civil war.

This is quite possible that under the treaty Germany has the right to require that the assistance to General Franco shall be kept approximately equal from both countries," the paper said. "The Anglo-Italian declaration loses much of its value in British eyes if it does not pave the way to more constructive co-operation between the two countries in the future."

from a rock and returned to Victoria with her decks crushed in thick ice.

A humorous note crept into the storm yesterday afternoon when a small car, parked on Broad Street, was fairly lifted by the wind and carried down the street. The driver didn't bother to adjust his emergency brakes, and in each gust of wind the car was driven farther along the street, much to the amusement of passers-by, until someone opened the door and put on the brake.

Conditions up-island were a little colder than in Victoria and the wind as severe. The Sooke and Malahat hills have snow on them and some of the roads are icy and treacherous.

Details of a new type British military plane, said to be capable of extremely high speeds, are being kept secret. One feature of the ship is a raised, transparent cockpit.

Nanking Makes Changes Following Pardon of Marshal Chang

Nanking, Jan. 6.—With Marshal Chang Hsueh-chung, who revolted at Lanchow in Kansu, were both reduced in rank but retained their posts as Shensi pacification commissioner and governor of Kansu respectively.

Marshal Chang's troops were ordered to resume the positions held by them prior to the revolt.

A government mandate issued Monday evening at Nanking announced that while Marshal Chang had been fully pardoned by the highest civil authority for his recent rebellion in Northwest China, he remained "subject to severe military discipline to be decided by the military affairs commission."

This came a few hours after the Council of State had granted a pardon cancelling the ten years' prison sentence handed down last week by the military affairs commission sitting as a court-martial.

Officials interpreted the mandate to mean that while under discipline—not imprisonment—the marshal will be unable to hold military posts and his movements will be subject to approval of his military superiors.

However, it was stated, all his civil rights are restored.

It has been authoritatively suggested he will make a long journey abroad.

Printers' Code In Alberta Upset

Magistrate Says Aberhart Government's Order Did Not Set Date

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Jan. 6.—The printers' code for Alberta was upset yesterday by Magistrate A. H. Gibson, who ruled it was non-operative because of an omission in the order-in-council proclaiming it.

The magistrate dismissed a charge against W. H. Heller, an Edmonton printer, charged with selling printing below the prices set in the code.

"In my opinion," the magistrate's judgment read in part, "the order-in-council is not effective to bring the code into force—that is, to give it the effect of law." His reason was that it did not stipulate a date on which the code would become operative and did not follow the wording of the Trade and Industry Act in its operative sections.

PROCLAIMED MONTH AGO

The printers' code was proclaimed a month ago. It set fair prices below which it was illegal to sell, and also stipulated a long list of unfair business practices which were prohibited.

The judgment affects only the printers' code, although it is only one of several that have gone into operation in recent months.

Hon. W. W. Cross, Acting Minister of Trade and Industry, when asked what action would be taken on the judgment, said: "The whole matter is receiving consideration."

"Will there be an appeal from the magistrate's decision?" he was asked.

"No," was the reply.

Premier William Aberhart had no comment on the decision.

Four Convicted Of Ship Slaying

Sentence to Be Passed in G. Alberts Case at Oakland, Cal., Next Monday

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 6.—Four maritime union men were convicted of second degree murder by a jury late yesterday in connection with the slaying of George Alberts, chief engineer aboard the freighter Point Lobos last March 22.

The penalty for second degree murder ranges from five years to life imprisonment. Those convicted were Earl King, E. G. Ramsay, Frank J. Conner and George Wallace.

Judge Frank M. Ogden in devoting one hour and a half to a review of the evidence and instructions, told the jurors to return one of four verdicts: 1, guilty of first degree murder without recommendation, which would mean the death sentence; 2, guilty of murder in the first degree with recommendation of life imprisonment; 3, guilty of second degree murder, and 4, acquittal.

The prosecution contended the slaying of Alberts was motivated by his reported antagonism to union activities.

CONFESSIONS STUDIED

Portuguese confessions of Wallace and Conner were asked by the jury shortly after it had returned from lunch. The jurors also requested transcript of their testimony, and that of A. M. Murphy, assistant secretary of the Marine Firemen's Union, who was a star witness for the prosecution.

Conner repudiated his statement at the trial, saying it had been obtained by threats. Wallace, however, admitted his statement, which implicated King, Ramsay and Conner in an alleged conspiracy he said resulted in the assault on Alberts and his death in his stateroom aboard the Point Lobos.

Judge Ogden announced he would pass sentence next Monday. Defence attorneys said, however, they would enter motions for a new trial at that time and if they were denied, an appeal would be filed.

Why Not Victoria?

THE OFFICIAL CANADIAN BROADCASTING CORPORATION'S PROGRAMME
SHEET FOR THE WEEK FROM OTTAWA LISTS FIFTY-THREE RADIOS STATIONS FROM CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., TO VANCOUVER USING C.B.C. PROGRAMMES.

Three stations in Vancouver are thus listed with a fourth outside the city at Chilliwack Trail. Kelowna and Kamloops each has a C.B.C.-served station. Of other western cities listed, Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Calgary and Edmonton each has two C.B.C. station connections.

Conspicuously absent from the list is Victoria, with not even its one station connected. This in spite of the fact that cities with a population not very much larger than that of the four urban municipalities which go to make up Greater Victoria have two C.B.C. stations.

Radio listeners on the southern part of this island are not getting the C.B.C. service for which they are paying. Surely they are paying enough through their annual licenses to have a right to some consideration from the C.B.C.

Under "Shirtism"

IN THESE COLUMNS RECENTLY we have suggested that the Third Reich under Reichsfuehrer Hitler is not doing the ordinary German very much good. Last Friday every German housewife had to limit her fat purchases to at least 80 per cent of her October buying.

We are now given the sequel. General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, frequently acclaimed as Hitler's successor, has compounded a slogan which is just this: "Gum instead of Butter!"

Only last week the German people were told to save their bread crusts. Restaurants had to obey the order to limit their menus in order that they would conform to the necessities of the time. People in the Third Reich are being commanded to eat less beef, veal, bacon, and imported vegetables, concentrating on potatoes, sugar, jam, cabbage, fish and limburger cheese. Small wonder that a current ditty should run like this:

Der Hitler hat keine Frau,
Der Bauer hat keine See,
Der Fleischer hat keine Fleisch;
Das ist das Dritte Reich.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler, of course, has no wife—first line interpretation. Then the farmer has no sow—second line carrying its own interpretation. Third and fourth lines tell us that the butcher has no meat and—"That is The Third Reich!"

Yet we have in Canada not a few misguided individuals who would, so it seems, bow down to the political demagogue, the upstart who thinks the best interests of the people can be served by the wearing of a specially-selected shirt of a particular hue.

The reactionary still has a great deal to learn.

Politics and Prisons?

PRISON CONDITIONS IN THE UNITED STATES would appear to require still further investigation. The current issue of The Literary Digest carries a story with a headline, "Prison Scandal." We quote a part of the article:

A man who had a toothache set Pennsylvania officials howling with pain last week, all because he failed to go to the dentist.

The man had said he would go; in fact, he notified the Warden of the Pottsville jail, where he was awaiting transfer to prison to serve a life term, that the dentist's office was his destination. Moreover, he had dressed carefully for his call, packed his pockets with money, selected his own guard to transport him.

The guard, unarmed, dropped him at the dentist's office, in a busy street, then drove on to park the car. But when he returned he discovered that the life termer had not gone to the dentist's at all.

Arrested on charges relating to her father's disappearance, Mrs. Antoinette Billing was released in $15,000 bail.

"I am satisfied there was no planned escape," she said, "but that my father got the impulse of running away when he found he was left alone for a few moments downtown."

Then go down to the year of 1934, which we are told by The Digest, was the year of the Kelayres massacre, when New York was shocked by conditions found in the City Prison on Welfare Island. Two gangs ran the prison, selling narcotics, food, clothing, parceling-out privileges and operating the gambling rackets. Favoured inmates cooked their own meals in their cells; if they needed extra fuel they ripped up books from the library.

Leaders of the gangs kept valets, drank excellent whisky, smoked the best cigars. Those who wanted petticoats had them. Among these were homing pigeons, used chiefly to bring in narcotics. So prevalent was the drug habit that, after the prison was raided, half of the inmates had to be hospitalized.

And then the other day a convict was allowed to get out of jail to go to a clinic. He did not go. The item carries its own commentary. Imagine a convict getting out of Dartmoor—that bleak and desolate spot in Britain's world's worst in the way of penitentiaries!

Which Way Roosevelt?

WITH THE RECENTLY ELECTED Congress getting into action at Washington this week, the rest of the world is interested with the United States as to the political trend under Roosevelt's second administration. Of political authorities who have been discussing the prospects, three of the best informed are Dr. Stanley High who has written an article for Liberty, Ernest K. Lindley who has presented his views in The Nation, and Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell who appears in The New Republic.

All three writers are personal friends of Roosevelt; all three have discussed his policies with him. Dr. High was one of the half dozen closest to Roosevelt in the campaign and one of a trio which worked intimately with him on his speeches. Mr. Lindley, a first-class reporter, as well as perhaps the most intellectual of the Washington correspondents, was Roosevelt's authorized 1932 biographer and has written probably the best available evaluation of the New Deal in "Half Way With Roosevelt." Dr. Tugwell was once the President's top brain-truster and is likely to be an influential adviser in future months.

Roosevelt expects to be assailed from the right for going too far and from the left for not going far enough, according to Dr. High. He indicates the President is ready to take to the radio against certain newspapers if they repeat the distortion and misrepresentation of which the President feels they were guilty in the campaign.

Roosevelt will go ahead with policies for the regulation of business monopoly and economic power. Dr. High believes, but not until he first tries to win voluntary co-operation from business. Dr. High predicts, however, that "prestige of money as power in government will almost certainly decline in the next four years—as it declined in the last four."

FURTHER PREDICTIONS: The U.S. Chamber of Commerce and business lobbyists will have less authority. Roosevelt believes he can balance the budget without new taxes, but if new taxes are necessary they will be imposed as far as possible on higher-income brackets. The President hopes the landslide election endorsement will influence the United States Supreme Court to a much more liberal attitude toward New Deal laws, but if there is no change Roosevelt is likely to propose various constitutional amendments.

Roosevelt, Dr. High suggests, would most of all like historians to be able to say that because of his New Deal "freedom and free institutions survived and were strengthened."

Mr. Lindley points out that if business wants to preserve an "era of good feeling," it will have to accept collective bargaining, maximum hours, minimum wage, and anti-child labor legislation "where it is needed." The President will concentrate on rounding out reforms he has begun or publicly suggested. Mr. Lindley expects, but will call for new reforms if the recovery curve goes downward. Roosevelt will "move ahead steadily with such long range programmes as conservation, reduction of land tenancy, cheap electricity, and possibly housing."

Dr. Tugwell does not predict Roosevelt's course, but calls for "economic statesmanship" and national planning. Industry, he complains, "continues its unplanned and directionless course."

"The purchasing power of consumers must be enlarged until it suffices to take off the market the goods that an expanding industry can supply. Otherwise, employment will flag, debts will again increase and the two—unemployment and debt—will again bury us in disaster," he says.

Dr. Tugwell deplores unwillingness of big business men to co-operate in national planning, attributing it partly to ignorance of economic facts.

From these forecasts it would appear that conservatism is to continue very much at a discount at Washington, with a mild but progressive socialization holding the right of way.

Healthy Sign

IN AN EASTERN CITY COURT A high-salaried oil company executive has been sitting with eleven other jurors at $3 a day to hear a chicken-stealing case. A court official of the city points out that such attention to a civic duty is becoming less unusual. "A few years ago," he said, "men of large affairs avoided jury service, but in recent months we have had a number of prominent men on juries."

If this trend is noticeable in other cities, also, it would be interesting to learn just what is responsible. It is possible that in hectic boom days these men subordinated their duties as citizens to the pursuit of profits; and that the common struggle through hard times revived their sense of responsibility to their fellow citizens.

In any event the trend is, as the official pointed out, "a healthy sign of revived interest in government," and an excellent example for any community.

Notes

Madrid is another place where it is risky to lean out of the window and shout, "Fire, as someone might."

If they can do it to watches, why not make ladies' gloves so they will glow in the dark under a seat at the movies?

Men may laugh at women's intuition, if they want to, but let them try to decide which is the front and the rear of their wives' hats.

The Ontario farmer who has a radio under the seat of his buggy undoubtedly is glad that "Oh, Whoa, Whoa, Whoa" song is out.

Loose Ends

Lord Tennyson would be appalled if he knew Mayor La Guardia stands up for freedom and jay-walkers—help proposed for burglars—and it is cold, yes, quite cold.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

POOR POET

IT IS AN INTERESTING FACT of human nature that the Crimean War is chiefly remembered through Tennyson's "Charge of the Light Brigade," on which an excellent movie, shown here last week, was founded. It is more melancholy to realize that Tennyson is chiefly remembered through this poem. It was the inspiration of the movie, as it is the inspiration of every schoolboy yearning for battle and manly gore.

And, while the charge itself apparently was one of the finest things in the record of British arms, the poem is one of the most inferior Tennyson ever wrote. Nearly all his other work is infinitely better. The snatches of song in "The Princess," for instance, are worth ten of his charges. If Tennyson were alive he would be horror-stricken to find that most of the present generation have never read a line of his "In Memoriam," nor heard of his "Ulysses"; but still small boys can thunder out the "Charge of the Light Brigade," which was evidently thrown together overnight as part of the job of Poet Laureate, a kind of high-class pot boiler.

Alas, it is often the case that great men are remembered by their least memorable works. Most people know only that Alfred, the first figure of note in English history, was a forgetful fellow who burned a lady's cake. Henry VIII is remembered almost exclusively for his numerous wives, his able statesmanship completely forgotten. At the present rate, Queen Victoria will be remembered only for the silly primness and hypocrisy of her times, not for the essential greatness of the times. Nothing can be done about it. Nothing can be done about a public which sees a movie of the Light Brigade's charge and goes home and thinks it knows Tennyson.

LOST CAUSE

SINCE STOP-AND-GO SIGNS were erected in Victoria, all the native independence, the hardy pioneer spirit of our people seems to have oozed out. They obey the traffic regulations without question. They huddle on street corners like sheep, waiting for the lights to change. Traffic itself is unimportant, but this sign of a decaying freedom is a changed public psychology, a loss cause, is distressing.

We are told that the city has grown too big for jay-walkers. I have always doubted it. I have always believed in jay-walking and now I have this in getting some support at last from an authority. It will be admitted, I suppose, that New York is larger than Victoria, with a greater traffic problem—even than that of Douglas Street. Yet the able mayor of New York, Mr. LaGuardia, has just denounced any attempt to interfere with the jay-walker. His utterance on this occasion is notable.

"Try to go step or to drive into formation march the residents of New York City," said he, "is a task far more difficult than it would seem. We are accustomed to move freely, and naturally would resent a police regulation. I prefer the happiness of our unorganized imperfection to the organized perfection of other countries. Broadway is not Unter den Linden, and Times Square is not the Plaza Venezia, and we cannot expect the enforced discipline of Red Square in a republic of free citizens."

It is a notable speech which we free-born jay-walkers of Victoria should commit to memory. Our cause is lost, of course. We are leading a forlorn hope. But at least we can get ourselves run over with dignity.

WILD NOTIONS

WHEN ITALY WAS INVADING ETHIOPIA and the League of Nations was making an indecent spectacle of itself in public, it was suggested in this place that before the business was finished the western powers, including Britain, would condone the rape of the last free African nation. It was suggested that the western nations would make no real attempt to stop Italy from stealing Ethiopia, because, at all costs, they wanted to keep Mussolini in control of his country, lest he be succeeded by Communism. It was suggested that after Italy had stolen Ethiopia by force of arms, the western nations would forgive her and that, finally, they would give the poor Italians a loan to help them develop their stolen property.

At that time such a prediction was regarded as just another of the wild and irresponsible notions to be found in this column. I had a few letters of protest, but the idea was generally considered too absurd to discuss.

This week came from London the intimation that the Ethiopian adventure is working out to its logical conclusion. Britain, it is intimated, will give the poor Italians a loan to help them develop backward Ethiopia, but will not recognize the conquest officially, only "de facto." The British government doubtless knows what it is doing, has to pay cash for Italy's support against the menace of Germany, has to subsidize a belligerent in self-defense. But the transaction should be remembered here next time the statement of the western powers ask this continent to fight over there for some immortal principle, some beautiful ideal.

Ours for one would have been a poor one, and I know a lot more would have been short without the Gyros.

Do you have to watch the pheasants and the quail marching past, dismal and hungry? Do you have to rush out into the teeth of the north blast to offer them a little grain and bread crumbs? Do you have to watch your rock plants wither before your very eyes while you are powerless to aid them?

Do you have to listen to Mrs. Noggin complain that her pipes have burst as usual, even though her son, Alf, is a plumber, for plumber's pipes are no more sacred, it seems, than yours or mine, a fact which Mrs. Noggin can never understand? Do you have to listen to the sarcastic reproaches of Bill Potts, our wood man, as he hastily brings us another load and reminds us that he predicted a hard winter away back last August, when we wouldn't listen to him? And have you two young demons next door who keep on hoping and confidently predicting that it will soon go down to zero?

ILL-BRED YOUTH'S CHARGE

To the Editor:—It is the topic of the letter "Ill-bred Canadian Youths" written by Sympathizer, Humboldt Street, which has prompted me to write this, my first letter to the Times, although living here some fifteen years.

The idea of such a reply full of malice just over childish impudence and that unpremeditated!

Some years ago I experienced the misfortune of having my purse snatched. The offender, from across the ocean, was about twenty to twenty-five years of age, and he received a sentence of two years. Little did I dream of kicking a fallen man, regardless of his nationality. In my testimony at court I tried to gloss it all over "so as not to condemn him too harshly." The paper remarked about my evidence not being very clear. In my heart I felt deeply sorry for him and his pal (Italian).

According to the letter on "Ill-bred Canadian Youths" I had ample reason to write a letter to the editor with blazing letters, "Thieving British Youths," but that he is w/o that let him cast the first stone."

RADIO MOVE IS ENDORSED

Representatives of Civic Groups Pass Resolution on Victoria Station Needs

Unanimous endorsement for the move of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to seek a new and more important radio station for Victoria, preferably connected with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, was given last night by representatives of a number of civic organizations who assembled under the auspices of the radio committee of the Junior Chamber in the Chamber of Commerce offices.

The resolution read in part: "This meeting goes on record as desiring such radio facilities for Victoria as will in the future provide for the city of Victoria and Southern Vancouver Island a radio station that will give us a definite individuality and enable us to broadcast through the new Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to all parts of Canada, or through any kindred network such as the CBC, or in times of national importance to the Empire at large."

The document will be placed before W. E. Gladstone Murray, general manager of the CBC, on his arrival here next week.

The wording of the resolution is substantially that used by the chairman of last night's meeting, Walter S. Miles, in opening the round-table discussion.

REPORTS ON OTTAWA

C. H. O'Halloran, just back from Ottawa, told the meeting how he had laid the views of Victoria on the matter of radio before Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, and of outcome of the interview. The minister had been of the impression, he said, that Victoria could be well supplied by the national outlet station in Vancouver.

Mr. O'Halloran had replied that as capital city of British Columbia, Victoria had a vital interest in broadcasting, and that it was the first port of call from the Orient and as such could be the point of origin of much interesting material.

R. H. B. Kerr took the stand that if there were to be a monopoly on broadcasting here, the city should be entitled to a first class station. He believed British Columbia should have an important place in the Canadian broadcasting picture, as California had in that of the United States.

CITY COUNCIL SUPPORT

Alderman J. A. Worthington, representing the City Council, pledged the support of the aldermen for any move which the junior chamber should choose to make in this connection, and congratulated the members on their work.

Alderman W. Lloyd Morgan seconded his pledge.

P. C. Simpson, representing mainland interests concerned in the establishment of a new station here, saw no objection to the successful operation of a private transmitter of medium power having access to network programmes.

TALENT SHORTAGE SEEN

Dick Claringbull of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Vancouver, suggested that there would be difficulty in finding sufficient talent locally for the full-time operation of a network outlet. "Radio is a big money proposition," he said. "It takes more than just building a station to put it over."

Mr. Claringbull asked the co-operation of those present in finding performers to represent Victoria on the special programme to be given January 15 at the dedication of the new GRCV transmitter.

Lee Osborne believed there was no evidence of talent in Victoria simply because such talent had not outlet in the past. He pointed to the number of Victoria artists who had gone to the United States in this connection. "If we get a station I think talent will be a very minor detail," he said.

Robert D. Harvey, representing the Victoria Conservative Association, suggested that a link between Victoria and the national network would help end the misconception in the east under which Canada was spoken of as "from Halifax to Vancouver."

The possibility of establishing the transmitter of a Victoria station as far away as Banff was also mentioned by Mr. Harvey. This, he believed, would give a much wider coverage.

The belief that Esquimalt would shortly rate as an important point imperially and that a powerful radio station might be of naval importance was put forward by W. W. Martin.

Other points brought up by delegates included the possibility of greater advertising support by merchants for a more powerful station, the interest of the whole island in Victoria's radio picture and the publicity value to the city of network representation.

TO INTERVIEW PREMIER

Mr. O'Halloran undertook to ask Premier T. D. Pattullo to interview Mr. Murray on his arrival here and to place before him the provincial government's request for a national station here.

Points brought out in a brief submitted to the meeting by William O. Findlay, secretary of the junior chamber, were: The geographic position of Victoria in its relation to the provision of radio entertainment and Canadian publicity to ships at sea; the large financial contribution to the CBC through radio licenses made by island listeners without return; the difficulty of tuning the Vancouver station here because of Mexican interference; the position of Victoria in comparison with a Quebec town of 12,000 inhabitants which had a basic CBC station, and the interest of Victoria's citizens in fine arts.

JANUARY 6, 1911

(From The Times Files)

In consequence of the burning of the men's wing of the provincial jail, it is the intention of the government temporarily to house the men either in the administrative portion of the house, which was uninjured, or in the old naval prison at Esquimalt, in the yard there. There is no spare accommodation in the Mainland prisons at the present time.

Starting on her 15,000 mile voyage to Victoria via the straits of Magellan, the new C. P. R. steamer Princess Patricia, formerly the Queen Alexandra, left Greenock, Scotland yesterday according to advices which were received here in the afternoon. It is expected the steamer will arrive at Victoria toward the end of March.

* * * * *

At a meeting of the City Council last evening, upon a report that arbitration proceedings had been completed in connection with the Victoria West street lines, and that the cost was $2,267.33, of which the city might contribute up to two thirds, the city solicitor suggested that in meeting the contribution, the expense of the preparation of plans by the engineering department should be borne in mind.

Judge Lampman this morning gave judgement for Frank King for $225 against the city as a result of the plaintiff having driven his rig and team into an excavation on Herald Street which had been left unlighted at night by the employees of the city on October 13 last.

The wording of the resolution is substantially that used by the chairman of last night's meeting, Walter S. Miles, in opening the round-table discussion.

Broadcast Chief Here Wednesday

Gladstone Murray to Spend Three Days in City Investigating Conditions

Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, will visit Vancouver Island next week to make a survey of the radio situation.

He will arrive in Nanaimo on Tuesday and will be the guest of the Board of Trade there. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday he will be at the Empress Hotel and will be pleased to meet anyone who wishes to attend.

Mr. Murray will speak to the teachers and pupils of Victoria High School on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, and will be the guest of the Junior Chamber of Commerce on Friday at a luncheon, which will be open to the public.

Vancouver Island is one of the parts of Canada where radio reception is difficult and the corporation is anxious to make improvements.

Alderman W. Lloyd Morgan seconded his pledge.

P. C. Simpson, representing mainland interests concerned in the establishment of a new station here, saw no objection to the successful operation of a private transmitter of medium power having access to network programmes.

TALENT SHORTAGE SEEN

Dick Claringbull of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Vancouver, suggested that there would be difficulty in finding sufficient talent locally for the full-time operation of a network outlet. "Radio is a big money proposition," he said. "It takes more than just building a station to put it over."

Mr. Claringbull asked the co-operation of those present in finding performers to represent Victoria on the special programme to be given January 15 at the dedication of the new GRCV transmitter.

Lee Osborne believed there was no evidence of talent in Victoria simply because such talent had not outlet in the past. He pointed to the number of Victoria artists who had gone to the United States in this connection. "If we get a station I think talent will be a very minor detail," he said.

Robert D. Harvey, representing the Victoria Conservative Association, suggested that a link between Victoria and the national network would help end the misconception in the east under which Canada was spoken of as "from Halifax to Vancouver."

The possibility of establishing the transmitter of a Victoria station as far away as Banff was also mentioned by Mr. Harvey. This, he believed, would give a much wider coverage.

The belief that Esquimalt would shortly rate as an important point imperially and that a powerful radio station might be of naval importance was put forward by W. W. Martin.

Other points brought up by delegates included the possibility of greater advertising support by merchants for a more powerful station, the interest of the whole island in Victoria's radio picture and the publicity value to the city of network representation.

TO INTERVIEW PREMIER

Mr. O'Halloran undertook to ask Premier T. D. Pattullo to interview Mr. Murray on his arrival here and to place before him the provincial government's request for a national station here.

Points brought out in a brief submitted to the meeting by William O. Findlay, secretary of the junior chamber, were: The geographic position of Victoria in its relation to the provision of radio entertainment and Canadian publicity to ships at sea; the large financial contribution to the CBC through radio licenses made by island listeners without return; the difficulty of tuning the Vancouver station here because of Mexican interference; the position of Victoria in comparison with a Quebec town of 12,000 inhabitants which had a basic CBC station, and the interest of Victoria's citizens in fine arts.

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile every day. If you don't do this it isn't flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful germs multiply, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that will move the bowels. In fact, this good old Carter's Little Liver Pill to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make them taste like bile again. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pill by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. See

Resolutions For New Year

Mrs. R. W. McClung
Gives Nurses
Some Suggestions

"New Year's Resolutions" was the subject of the talk given by Mrs. R. W. McClung before the Victoria Graduate Nurses' Association at their meeting held in the nurses' home of St. Joseph's Hospital last night.

In her preamble, Mrs. McClung paid tribute to the members of the nursing profession, who saw humanity at its "lowest ebb" but "still love us and have our welfare very close to their hearts."

Her resolutions for the New Year, full of homely philosophy, were as follows:

"1. When I am at a meeting, I will come to order when the bell rings even if I am just approaching the 'hub' of a very good story. I will not mutter, nor whisper, nor give my opinion to the member next to me instead of addressing the chair. If I can not have my own way, I will not be silent and sad or threaten to resign."

"2. When I hear a good story, I will not try to discount it by telling a better one. That cuts friendship.

"3. Now in regard to words during the year that is coming, I will try to ease the strain on the two adjectives: 'wonderful' and 'marvelous.' Good words they are, but they are beginning to show signs of fatigue. With a whole dictionary of words beside me, there is no reason for making these two do all the chores."

"4. I will not waste other people's time by telling them how busy I am. Everyone is busy or believes he is, so that has ceased to be news. Indeed I will try to listen more and talk less. We all learn more by listening."

"5. I will do at least one thing each day that I do not want to do—go for a walk, do without a meal, tidy a drawer, do a bit of mending, return a book or read a dull one, just to keep a hold on my will power."

"6. I will not be afraid of silences in conversation. There are times when a clean silence is better than idle chatter. In the silence, thoughts may germinate."

"7. I will not be one of these petty sensitive souls, whose feelings are easily hurt. If anyone is going to offend me, they will have to put it in writing."

"8. I will never offer to do something or give something, hoping that the prospective recipient will refuse to let me. If I do something for anyone I will not re-treat them letting me do it. This is the rock upon which many a good family foundation founders."

"9. I will keep alive my sense of wonder. Things do just 'come about' sometimes."

"10. I will try to tell the exact truth, which (apart from its moral value) saves much wear and tear on the memory."

"11. I will affirm my conviction that intellectual snobs are the most objectionable of all snobs."

"12. I am going to do more this year than I ever did to get books for everyone. There are so many book-hungry people. I will not be a book hoarder any more. Books are a refuge, a sure defence, equalizing life's good gifts. They alone for so many of life's injustices. Let us love books, and have drawn comfort from them, never forget that one hungry soul is of more value than many books."

Miss E. Toyneby, the president, was in the chair, and Miss Meta Hodge moved the vote of thanks to the inmates. Miss Aimee Heddle kindly played Christmas carols during the dinner hour.

The committee for the month will be Mrs. W. L. Clay, convener; Mrs. Scott and Miss E. O'Brien.

Donations for December are gratefully acknowledged, as follows:

Refused to Lead Nazi Tune

Dutch Orchestra Leader "Jibs" at Gala Festival

By THOMAS HAMILTON
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Associated Press

The Hague, Jan. 6.—A Dutch orchestra leader's refusal to conduct the Nazi "Horst Wessel" at a royal entertainment rivaled public interest today, the festivities for Crown Princess Julianne's wedding tomorrow.

The incident occurred before 1,500 guests, including the bridal couple and Queen Wilhelmina, at a gala festival last night. It marked the latest setback to the Netherlands hopes of keeping the wedding a "family affair" and avoiding international complications due to the German origin of Prince Bernhard of Lippe-Biesterfeld, Julianne's fiance.

Dr. Peter van Anrooij, a well-known conductor, explained later he did not object to leading "Deutschland Über Alles," which also was on the programme, but would never play a political party song such as "Horst Wessel."

The leader of a Dutch military band conducted the two German selections and Dr. Van Anrooij directed the rest of the programme.

Imprisoned tax defaulters and other offenders looked toward the royal wedding gleefully, hopeful of Queen Wilhelmina's amnesty in celebration.

Among those who expected to benefit were mutineers of the Dutch warship Zeven Provincien, who seized the vessel in the Dutch East Indies four years ago, surrounding only after a seaplane had bombed it and killed twenty-three men.

JEWISH PROTEST

Because the German anthems were played last night, Jewish authorities at The Hague remained away in protest against Nazi anti-Jewish activities.

Few swastika flags were on display. Only one was flown prominently over the German legation—and it was guarded day and night to prevent a repetition of the pulling down of a German flag last Saturday.

Queen Wilhelmina, Julianne's mother, will grant freedom to 150 prisoners on the wedding day.

Sentences of others will be reduced to periods ranging between four and six weeks, while full pardons will be granted 1,300 violators of the tax laws, a statement said.

IMPORTED CORN MUST PAY DUTY

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—The duty on corn imported into Canada became automatically restored on New Year's Day. It has been learned from National Revenue officials. The tariff was suspended some months ago when Canada faced a shortage in domestic supplies.

The tariff is three cents a bushel under the British preference, twenty cents intermediate and twenty-five cents general. In the case of South Africa free entry of corn from that Dominion is guaranteed as a special preference and when the general suspension of tariff was made, South Africa's consent had to be obtained. This was secured by reason of the fact that the Union was itself short of supplies.

Most of the corn imported during the suspension of the impost was obtained from Argentina.

HUMBLE BEGINNING

Punctuating his address with characteristic chuckles and many anecdotes and witticisms, the eminent economist and popular humorist traced the development of humor from its earliest beginnings.

As humanity came up from the primal ooze and had a humble beginning so humor began with lowly things. It began with a humble and even malevolent character of which modern humor still bears traces, he said.

Primitive humor was of the destructive type and the rudeness of that characteristic in modern times could be seen in such writings as Capt. Harry Gray's "Harmless Rhymes for Heartless Homes," in which fun was poked at the ills that happened to other people.

But as humanity progressed so the character of its humor changed. A humor grew up which was based on the theme of contrast, and the most effective form of humor became that which could be traced to incongruity, depending for its appeal purely on the turn of a word.

This coupled a heroic form of verse with an unheroic quality of subject, the contrast of the grandeur of setting and the simplicity of behaviour. THE VOGUE OF THE PUN

The pun was a notable example of Victorian humor, continued Dr. Leacock, and he quoted some of the gems accredited to Rev. Sidney Smith, the great English wit and master punster. Another method of the Victorian age, in which the vogue of punning reached its zenith, was "so take puns and embalm them."

THE HUMOR OF DICKENS

After touching upon the genius of the great English humorist, Dickens, and his gift for satirization of human foibles softened by kindly forgiveness, the speaker noted that satire is a form of humor which turns not so much upon words as on thoughts. In close relation to it was burlesque, which connoted not a work for word parable, but a reproduction of the weakness of other things by exaggeration.

"WELL-TURBED" HEROES

With a chuckle, Dr. Leacock placed in this category the hero of the "Ouida" type of love story. This invariably had a hero with straight legs, an "indefinable well-tubbed air (whatever that may mean!)" and clean-shaven. And here the speaker mourned the departure of the early Victorian hero who boasted a fine set of whiskers, "immortalized in Longfellow's 'This Is the Forest Prim-

Victorians On Big Broadcast

Local Talent Will Take Part in Opening of New Vancouver Studios

Victoria will be represented in a broadcast for the entire North American continent and possibly England about February 15, it has been announced here by Dick Claringbull, programme director of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation outlet in Vancouver, CRCV.

Mr. Claringbull was securing talent in Victoria yesterday for the part of the broadcast allocated to this city in the gala opening of the new CRCV studios and transmitter.

Quick pick-ups from every large city in the Dominion, including Victoria, will be made following a CRCV feature at 6 o'clock the evening the new station opens. The entire programme will be sent to the Columbia Network, the National Broadcasting Company network and the Mutual Broadcasting System in the United States, it is planned, and possibly to the BBC in England.

Victoria will be featured prominently in a second show after a quarter-hour break at 7:30 o'clock according to present plans.

The new transmitter, which increases the power of CRCV from 500 watts to 5,000 watts, will be opened simultaneously with the new studios on the ground and mezzanine floors of the C.N.R. hotel in Vancouver. The studios, which are the most modern in Canada, include three broadcasting rooms, audience, observation and clients' rooms and a master control room. The transmitter, a modern vertical type, is on Lulu Island.

Ganges, Jan. 6.—Under the auspices of the South Salt Spring Island Women's Institute a progressive 500 party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Graham, Burgoyne Valley. Prizes were won by Mrs. Percy Hotel, Mrs. P. C. Mollett, H. O'Flynn and F. Reid. Following supper the room was cleared for dancing.

A dance was held at "Barnsbury," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Wilson, Central Salt Spring, on New Year's Eve. A committee consisting of Mr. and Mrs. George West, Miss Bride Wilson and J. D. Hally, were responsible for arrangements. Over seventy guests were present. Dancing took place in the clubroom where Hague's orchestra played the latest dance music.

One-house Plan For Nebraska

State Is First in U.S. to Adopt unicameral Legislature System

Associated Press

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 6.—Nebraska's new one-house legislative machine was in action today, following a four-hour harmonious opening session yesterday at which it perfected its permanent organization.

Lieut.-Governor Walter Jurgensen, presiding officer, called the nation's first unicameral law-making body into session. Spectators overflowed from the galleries to the floor.

"From now on," U.S. Senator George W. Norris told the forty-three members elected on a non-partisan basis, "Nebraska has a right to expect a business administration."

Charles Warner, a veteran of twenty-five years in Nebraska's legislatures, following his election as Speaker, cautioned that "an efficient Legislature" did not necessarily mean "speed in converting bills into law."

PRISON INQUIRY SESSIONS IN B.C.

Ottawa, Jan. 6 (Canadian Press)—The royal commission inquiring into the Canadian penitentiaries will resume its investigation some time around the middle of January, it was learned here yesterday. St. Vincent de Paul prison in Montreal will be the locale of the investigation when it starts up again.

AT VANCOUVER, Vancouver, Jan. 6—Police Magistrate H. S. Wood was appointed by the Vancouver police commission yesterday to aid the federal commission investigating Canada's penal institutions when that body sits here.

Magistrate Wood was instructed to communicate with the commission, ascertain the scope of its inquiry and obtain any information regarding local conditions which might be useful to the investigating body.

Touring Eleven Faces Defeat in Third Test Match at Melbourne

Leyland Gives Fine Display

Canadian Press

DESPITE the fact they lost the Anzac Cup to their friendly rivals, the Saturday League in successive games, officials and players of the Wednesday Football League still hold the opinion they can field a team that will mark up a victory. With this in mind the mid-weekers are anxious to play the third game of the best two-out-of-three series, even though the Victoria and District League has become official holder of the cup for the next twelve months in view of the two straight victories of their representatives. Whether or not the game will be played rests in the hands of the week-enders and right now they have made no decision.

To back up their argument the Wednesday Leaguers point to the fact that their weakened eleven was only beaten by two goals in the second match on New Year's Day. Of the original squad chosen to play, three players, Cockrell, Magee and Kennedy were missing. With these men on the field the team would have given a much improved performance to the mid-weekers' claim. However, the Wednesday representatives take their two defeats in good grace but want another chance to prove themselves. Maybe they will get the opportunity.

Give a fellow a big hand and he'll pay dividends in any form of athletics, provided he has a fair share of the other physical requirements.

There have been exceptions, to be sure. For instance, the original Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, had the hands of a girl. So has Tony Canzoneri, but the mighty few who have done big things with small mitts only stress the handicaps they place upon the combatant.

Managers, coaches, and instructors in all games study the hands of newcomers. In contests played with a ball, they find that chaps with generous mitts rarely are fumblers, and, in case you don't know it, just as many basketball engagements are fumbled away in a season as rugby, football and baseball games.

In boxing, brittle hands usually are the result of a warrior hitting too hard for the size of his fists.

The Original Celtics, including the famous trio of Nat Holman, Johnny Beckman, and Dutch Dehnert, probably rank as basketball's greatest team because of their dazzling passing.

The secret of the Celtics' success was that they were adept in all forms of accurate and trick relay passing.

They could do everything but make the basketball talk with their hands. Their hands controlled the flight of the ball so completely that they seldom failed to place it within inches of the destination for which the sphere was intended, whether the pass was short or the full length of the court.

A player who wears out quickly cannot win games with momentary offensive spurts. For every point he scores in basketball, for example, his weariness and subsequent lapses will permit the opposition to tally two.

A player who bravely attempts to carry on while in physical distress is much more worthy than a player out of shape, but the result is the same.

A tired athlete or one in poor condition is worse than no player at all. Absent, the player merely is missed, but one incapable of holding up his end botches up team unity and gets in everyone's way. The line between in shape and out of shape perhaps is finer in basketball than in any other sport.

Knute Rockne thought up the shock troop idea in football to give Notre Dame regulars of the future experience, however brief, under fire.

Second stringers are employed to give first stringers opportunities to rest.

But regulars in all games should be capable of playing the limit, unless injured.

Max Schmeling To Go on Tour

New York, Jan. 6.—Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, said yesterday he had closed with promoters of sixteen cities for an exhibition tour for the German heavyweight, starting March 1 and lasting for about five weeks. Jacobs said Schmeling would net $50,000 from the tour.

Billy Buxton Meets Tolteco

Seattle, Jan. 6.—Billy Buxton, the hard-punching Victoria youngster who has belted out five of his last six ring opponents, was signed yesterday to battle Chief Tolteco, Aztec Indian featherweight from Mexico City, in the six-round semi-final of next Tuesday night's boxing card at the Crystal Pool.

Tolteco, who fought last week in Sacramento, leaves for Seattle today to put in a few days' training on the ground. Buxton has just about run out of opponents near his weight in this neck of the woods.

A few more wins under his belt and the dynamite-soaking youngster will be headed for windup melées here. Billy is a cool-headed, shifty scrapper and has plenty of color.

BARNEY ROSS IS WORRIED

Financial Prospects of Welter Boxing Champion Suffer Sudden Collapse

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Barney Ross, the world welterweight boxing champion, wondered today what had become of his rosy financial prospects or six months ago.

L. B. Fishlock, young Surrey player, took the place of William Voss, Nottinghamshire fast bowler, when play was resumed before 25,000 spectators in the stadium today. He tested a sore ankle. Bradman and Stanley McCabe carried the score from 500 to 511, when the latter was put out leg-before-wicket by G. O. Allen. English captain, for the fall of the seventh wicket, The New South Wales player made 22 runs.

Missed FOR DUCK

L. S. Darling, Victoria, pulled a ball from Allen on to his wicket before he had scored and then M. W. Sievers, another Victorian, stayed with Bradman until the Aussie captain left at 549. Never thoroughly confident when opposing Hedley Verity, star spin bowler, Bradman skied a ball to Allen, field at mid-on. He attempted to pull but was deceived by the pace of Verity's delivery.

Ross was to get $45,000 and $5,000 for expenses to meet Carroll. Also there were plans for a battle with Jimmy McLaren, the Vancouver Celt, and one with Pedro Montanez, sensational Puerto Rican youngster.

WOULD DOUGIE GARCIA

Toddy, the only definite business in sight was something Ross and his board of strategy don't want under the terms offered—a championship defense against Ceferino Garcia in Madison Square Garden for a percentage of the gate."

The Australian jaunt blew up when the $45,000 guarantee was not deposited in a Chicago bank. Montanez has retired temporarily to Puerto Rico. Another duel with McLarnin is just barely possible.

"I never felt better, or had less," the welterweight king said as he resumed drills just in case something turns up. "Things looked great last summer, but they're certainly terrible in my division now. I was thinking the other day that a good street fight would come in handy for a workout."

Neither Ross nor Pain, who is under suspension in New York for refusing to accept a percentage offer to defend the championship against Garcia, can see any sense in meeting the young Derbyshire pro.

ENGLISH INNINGS

The crowd had increased to 45,000 after lunch, when T. Worthington, Derbyshire, and C. Barnett, Gloucestershire, started England's second innings. The Gloucester man hit out while his colleague defended. With 29 runs on the board, Barnett got his leg in front of one of W. J. O'Reilly's offerings for the fall of the first wicket. He made 23 runs.

Hammonton partnered Worthington, but the latter edged a ball to Sievers in the slips with the total at 65. Frank Ward being the bowler. The young Derbyshire pro scored only 18 runs, but he defended well for eighty-two minutes.

Leyland came in with Hammond, and the veterans took no chances. At the ten interval Englands' total stood at 98 for two, and Hammond was not dismissed until the score had been taken to 117. When he had made 51, Sievers beat him with an unusually fast ball that took the off stump. Hammond batted for seventy-eight minutes, hitting seven boundaries.

Leyley came in with Hammond, and the veterans took no chances. At the ten interval Englands' total stood at 98 for two, and Hammond was not dismissed until the score had been taken to 117. When he had made 51, Sievers beat him with an unusually fast ball that took the off stump. Hammond batted for seventy-eight minutes, hitting seven boundaries.

Leslie Ames, Kent wicketkeeper, made 19 in half an hour, three times sent the ball to the ropes. L. O. B. Fleetwood-Smith, Victoria googly bowler, got his wicket. The fifth wicket fell at 179. Joseph Hardstaff, Nottinghamshire, hitting up 17 when he fell a victim to the wiles of the Victoria spin expert. Allen made 11 and then E. W. V. Robins stayed with Leyland until the end. The Middlesex star made 27 not out in twenty minutes. He made several sweeping drives that included three fours.

While his colleagues lost their wickets, Leyland played a cool game, his work being featured by straight drives and powerful leg strokes. At the close he had been two hours at the wickets for seven fours.

REFUSING MEDICAL ATTENTION

On his way to a political rally where he was scheduled to speak in behalf of his candidacy for President, Theodore Roosevelt walked out of the Gilpatrick Hotel to be met by a bullet struck "Teddy" high on his right side and was slowed down in rippling through his overcoat, glasses case and the manuscript of the speech he was about to deliver. The leaden pellet lodged in his lung but had been retarded sufficiently to save his life.

BANDIT EPITAPH

Equally as famed for his gallant behavior toward ladies as for his daring and successful career as a highwayman, Claude DuVall rests under a highly appropriate epitaph.

The terror of all French and English traveling gentry, "Robin Hood of the Seventeenth Century" was honored by having a price set on his head by no less a personage than the king of England himself.

Finally captured, he was found guilty on six separate charges, was condemned, and met death by execution at Tyburn, England. For a while his body lay in state, viewed by vast multitudes of people, and then was laid away with pomp and ceremony under the centre aisle of the fashionable Covent Garden Church.

Today the worn letters of the inscription on his tombstone can still be read:

"Reader, if male thou art,
Look to thy purse; if female, to thy heart."

Tomorrow: The Pirate's Church.

EVERETT MARSHALL

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Everett Marshall of La Junta, Colo., held recognition in Illinois today as the world heavyweight wrestling champion.

Marshall threw Jim McMillen, Antioch, Ill., last night after slightly more than seventy-one minutes of grappling in a ninety-minute time limit bout witnessed by 6,000 spectators. With a back body drop, Marshall ended the bout, recognized as a world championship affair.

Dominoes Will Meet Tacomans Here Saturday; Games Tonight

The Wheeler-Osgood hoop quintette from Tacoma will be in town Saturday to take on the Dominoes in an intercity exhibition contest. It will be the fifth appearance of an out-of-town squad in Victoria this season.

The local quintette is offered a fine chance to limber up for the week-end engagement this evening when they oppose Charlie Morton's Capitols in a senior A men's league tussle at the High School gym, to head a three-game card. Gainers' Superiors will take the floor against the Burnetts in the opener at 7 o'clock, while the Liberty Cafes and West Saanich Mercantiles, senior B teams, will meet in the second exhibition.

The Dominoes-Wheeler-Osgood tilt should be one of the best this season. The Tacomans have measured the Washington Huskies and C.P.S. for defeats and are smart ball handlers. The locals have bowed to defeat but once in their four tussles with visiting clubs.

Much Praise For Game Roy Worters

Diminutive Goalie of New York Americans Hockey Club Finishes Game Against Rangers After Being Seriously Injured; Rangers, Detroit and Maroons Winners

Out for Season

Whatever hockey fans think of Roy Worters' goalkeeping this season they have nothing but admiration for the way the little fellow played his last game of the schedule—perhaps the last of his career. The modest New York Americans' netminder went out the hard way if ever a player did. New York Rangers were beaten America 4 to 1 in the third period at Madison Square Garden last night when Worters went down under a pile of players and suffered a hernia. Then the little gamesmaster staged an exhibition of courage that rarely has been equaled in the game.

He stayed in there with an injury that will mean a serious operation—even sprawled on the ice in making several saves. Each time it was apparent he suffered agony in getting back to his feet, Rangers scored three more goals and won the game 7 to 1, but those seven goals won't be remembered when the story of Worters' courage is still being told.

DETROIT WINS

For Rangers the victory meant staying in a tie for first place in the National League's American division with Detroit Red Wings who beat Bruins 3 to 2 at Boston. In the third game last night Montreal Maroons moved up to within four points of Canadians by beating the Canadian division leaders 4 to 2 in Montreal.

Red Dutton's team have lost twelve of their last thirteen games. Much of the blame has been placed on Worters, the man who held the team together for years. It is reported Dutton has been angling for the services of Lorne Chabot, now a free agent, and he may play in the game in New York tomorrow against Detroit.

Chabot often has had salary trouble and he is not likely to leave his good job in Toronto unless he is offered plenty. If he is not signed Alf Moore will be brought up from the New Haven club of the International-American League.

Americans were without Harry Oliver, ill in Montreal, when they took the ice last night and several other players were suffering from a mild flu. Rangers scored four goals before Americans could get one. Frank Boucher and Babe Pratt tallied in the first period and Alex Shibicky got two in the second. Deed Klein got the only American counter in that frame and Ott Heller, Phil Watson and Neil Colville scored after Worters was injured.

TWO QUICK GOALS

Two goals in the last three minutes of play won the game for Boston for Detroit. Bill Cowley scored for Boston in the first and Syd Howe tied it only to have Ray Getliffe put the Bruins ahead again in the second.

A sudden slowing up by the Bruins left an opening for Gordon Pettinger to race in the 2 to 2 tying goal and pass to Mud Bruneteau for the winner.

The largest crowd in three years—11,000—saw Maroons hold off a furious third period rally by Canadians to protect their lead. Maroons outplayed the section leaders in the first half of the game and piled up three goals that were too much for the Habituants to overcome.

Dave Trotter, Jimmy Ward and Bandy Northcott set up the advantage and George MacLean made the first cut into it with his late second period goal. Then George Brown, former Montreal amateur, scored his second goal in his second professional game early in the third.

It was the last bid from Canadiens Lionel Conacher, made it safe for Tommy Gorman's men when he took Earl Robinson's pass late in the third and beat Cude.

PERNICIOUS ANEMIA

which occurs especially in the northern part of the temperate zone of America and Europe, is prone to develop in blue-eyed Nordics whose hair has turned prematurely gray and who have broad faces and large body frame.

Plans—Hank Leiber will play center field. I still think he will be a great ball player. Lou Chiozza will take Jackson's place at third, and Johnny McCarthy will be at first. I think I'll put myself on the voluntary retired list this week.

"It Chiozza doesn't go at third, I may try Mel Ott there and move Jimmy Ripple over to right."

Ideas—We suggested that each club in the majors be permitted to carry two promising first-year men in addition to their regular twenty-three. These two must never have been in the majors before:

"And I've figured out a new batting order too. I'm gonna lead off with Chiozza. Then Dick Bartell, Ott, and Leiber, and then Joe Moore, McCarthy, Burges Whitehead and Gus Mansuso."

Driving a car along Government Street at fifty miles an hour, even at night when there is almost no traffic, constitutes driving to the common danger. Magistrate Henry Hall ruled in City Police Court this morning. A fine of $20 with the alternative of five days' imprisonment was imposed on the driver, who pleaded not guilty and who conducted his own defence. Constable Joseph Addison testified he paced the machine at fifty miles an hour across five intersections from Bay Street south at about 11:35 o'clock on the night of December 28. In answer to questioning by the defendant, he admitted there was little or no traffic on the street at the time and that the car was under control, but insisted that such a speed was dangerous.

BRADEN WINS CRASH CLAIM

GIVEN VERDICT IN EAST SAANICH ROAD AUTO CASE

By Judge H. H. Shandley

Judgment in favor of the plaintiff, William H. Braden et al, was handed down by Judge H. H. Shandley yesterday on the auto crash trial before him in County Court last month.

Damages amounting to $265 were sought by the plaintiff from defendant Arthur W. Jones et al, as the result of an automobile mishap on East Saanich Road last summer.

Evidence adduced at the trial showed the defendant, driving a truck, had run into the plaintiff's car while it was parked on the roadway.

The defense stressed the fact that fires, greatly obscured vision at the time. The judge held there was not sufficient smoke to excuse the driver of the truck and that the accident would not have happened had he been keeping a proper lookout.

Judge Shandley dismissed a counter claim that the parked car was standing in an unsafe position. The judge noted there was ten feet clearance on the other side of the car which would allow other vehicles to pass.

Plaintiff was represented by F. G. Powkies and defendants by D. S. Tait, 9202 A.O.F.

Interment will be made in the Colwood Burial Park. Funeral service will be conducted by Rev. P. C. Hayman.

CARELESSNESS STILL CHIEF CAUSE OF OUTBREAKS

Department Record Shows

Carelessness is still the chief cause of fires, it is indicated in figures released this morning by the Victoria Fire Department for the year 1936.

Smokers tossing burning cigarette butts out of windows or onto combustible material were responsible for thirty-seven of the 479 fire alarms answered by the department last year.

In 1935 there were only twenty such fires.

Forty-two other causes are listed, and only four of the fires are recorded as "cause unknown."

There are a number of hardly unusual origins for minor blazes, to be found in the department's records each year. Among them are drying wood in stoves, improperly thawing out frozen pipes, and holding a light near to gasoline and other explosive liquids.

One fire started when a householder poured oil into the vaporiser pan of a heater by mistake for water. Spontaneous combustion in a load of green hay and in piles of oily rags are also recorded.

Children playing with matches and with gasoline were present on the list as usual. Clothes hanging too near fireplaces and stoves also caused a number of fires.

Electric appliances left on in empty houses were responsible for three fires. Electric irons were blamed for two, and in one case a hot plate burned through a table and right through the floor of a house.

Only one case is recorded on the list as presumed incendiary. There were fifty-one false alarms in 1936, against seventy-six in 1935.

Most remarkable fire of last year was on New Year's Day, when a husband, angered by his wife in a domestic quarrel, piled her clothes on top of the kitchen stove and unwittingly set fire to the house.

Here are a few:

"I couldn't see any resemblance to your 'bit of old England.'"

"We certainly enjoyed the English atmosphere."

"Victoria lacks the picturesqueness of old England and its quaint villages."

"We came to Victoria because many of our friends told us of your English atmosphere."

"Much disappointed to find Victoria modernized. You've lost the 'Angelical' atmosphere that attracted us of these United States."

"Victoria has lost a great deal of its charm during the last few years."

"I like Victoria because of its English ways. My father came from England where our family history goes back 700 years."

"You delightful English people."

"When restaurants advertise English crumpets or other typical English dishes they should try to produce the best."

"Your auto stickers. Follow the birds to Victoria is the best advertisement I've ever seen."

"Your people do not rush from the terrible cold which penetrates their inadequate clothing."

INDIAN TESTIFIED

"The coffee was poor all over the island."

"Your officials are the most courteous in Canada."

"We remember the outdoor checkerboard and bowling green in Beacon Hill Park."

"The road from Victoria to Naaimo could stand treatment."

"We came to rest and culture ourselves."

"Your people in the main are lovely, but your h'ways are atrocious."

"We came to see what you had to offer and it was OK."

"Why not valet service at the hotels after 5 o'clock on Saturdays?"

"We were 120 days on the island and spent $1,400."

"The scenery, beaches, friendly people, long days, twilight and reasonable prices—these attracted us to Victoria."

"We came to get a bird's-eye view of you."

"It was very difficult to obtain accommodation at the auto camp and cottages."

"We liked your stores and only wished we had brought more money with us so we could have purchased some of the lovely blankets we saw."

"Would like to see your west coast road completed."

"We spent $1 an hour while we were on your island."

"I was so delighted with my visit to Victoria that when I got home I sent five people and they all returned home with the same view."

"We enjoyed driving to Victoria from 'Nanica'."

"Butchart's Gardens are very delightful."

"We liked the shops in Victoria and spent $350."

ALBERTA HAS NEW MINISTER

Hon. N. E. Tanner Takes Over Lands and Mines As Hon. C. C. Ross Quits

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Jan. 6.—Hon. Nathan E. Tanner, thirty-eight-year-old school teacher from Cardston, is Alberta's new Minister of Lands and Mines. He was sworn in yesterday, a few minutes after Premier William Aberhart had accepted the resignation of Hon. C. C. Ross.

The Premier would give no reason for the resignation of Mr. Ross, who has held the portfolio since the Social Crediters swept the provincial election in August, 1935.

"Are there any other cabinet changes contemplated," the Premier was asked.

"I have no announcement to make at the present," he said.

Mr. Ross did not resign his seat, Athabasca, in the Legislature, the Premier said, but only his portfolio.

The resignation of Mr. Ross had been reported in political circles since December 21, but neither denied nor confirmed by himself or the Premier. According to this report, the resignation was requested by Premier Aberhart December 29 at a conference in Calgary and was tendered to effect December 31.

Mr. Tanner said his policy as Minister of Lands and Mines would "develop the natural resources and industries within the province for the benefit of the people as a whole."

BORN AT SALT LAKE

The new minister was born at Salt Lake City, Utah, May 9, 1898, and came to Canada as a child. His parents were Mormons and he is a bishop in that church, a position that corresponds roughly to that of a congressional minister in the Presbyterian or United.

Mr. Tanner was educated at Cardston, the location of the largest Mormon temple in Canada and the corresponding Canadian centre to Salt Lake City. For the last fourteen years he has been a school teacher, although he resigned as principal of the Cardston public school in June, 1936, to take part in the provincial election.

At the first session under the social credit government, Mr. Tanner was elected Speaker of the Legislature, a position vacated by his elevation to the cabinet.

Mr. Ross, who holds a degree in science, has been active in mining development in Canada for years. Born in Ottawa, he attended McGill University, Montreal.

Mr. Ross has never been identified with the Social Credit organization, apart from his seat in the House and membership in the government.

CONGRATULATIONS GIVEN

Canadian Press
Calgary, Jan. 6.—In a statement issued early today, C. C. Ross, former member of the Alberta cabinet whose resignation was accepted yesterday, said:

"It is true I tendered my resignation as Minister of Lands and Mines. This step was not taken without due consideration. It was prompted by very good and proper reasons."

"The one who should disclose those reasons is the Premier."

"Of course I am still, and will continue to be, the member for Athabasca."

Mr. Ross extended congratulations to Hon. Nathan E. Tanner, his successor, who formerly was Speaker of the Legislature. He wished Mr. Tanner success and good luck.

Protection On Gold Clauses

Legislation Will Safeguard Canadians Against Paying Premiums on Bonds

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—Legislation will be introduced at the coming session of Parliament to protect debtors under Canadian law from having to pay premiums because of gold clauses in bonds. Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, so stated yesterday evening when asked by the Canadian Press.

The legislation will be in line with the understanding reached by the Dominion-provincial finance committee last month. It will be designed to allow debtors with obligations governed by the laws of Canada and containing the gold clause to discharge their debts by payment of the face amount in legal tender.

The legislation has been made particularly advisable because of a recent decision of the British Court of Appeal in the international trustee case, Mr. Dunning explained. Without such legislation on the statute books in Canada the Dominion and provinces might be called on to redeem their bonds at $1.69 for every $1 of face value.

PAST PRACTICE

In the past, it is understood, the Canadian government and others who had issued gold bonds had relied on the assumption that holders of bonds could not demand payment in gold because of the restrictions governing the possession and disposal of gold in this country. Therefore they would have to accept legal tender for the face value.

The decision of the British court, however, was that the gold clause was the measure of the obligation, not the method of payment. Therefore if gold was at a premium as compared with legal tender, the premium would have to be paid if the bond was redeemed in legal tender.

Mr. Dunning explained this British case involved an obligation on the part of the British government on bonds maturing next February 1 and payable in New York in gold coins of the United States of a specified standard and weight and fineness.

The decision of the Court of Appeal, said Mr. Dunning, "was that the obligation, being an obligation of the British government, was governed by the law of England and that the British government was obliged to pay in New York principal and interest of such bonds in the dollar equivalent of such gold coin, being at the rate of about $1.69 in present currency of the United States for each $1 of indebtedness."

"As the Canadian Parliament has passed no legislation such as public resolution number ten of the United States Congress, relieving debtors for paying the monetary equivalent of gold, this decision has created uncertainty as to the liability of the Dominion and other Canadian debtors in respect of gold clause obligations."

REQUESTED BY PROVINCES

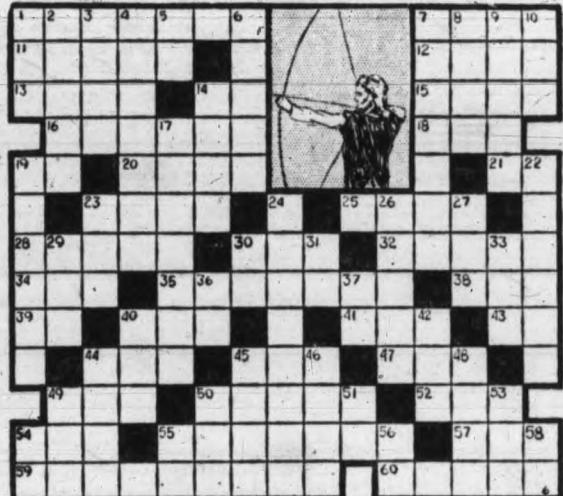

Mr. Dunning was asked whether, in view of the uncertainty created by this decision and the unjust burden which would be imposed on Canadian debtors if they were required to pay a premium of approximately 69 per cent over the face amount of their obligations, it was the intention of the Dominion government to pass legislation such as had been requested by representatives of all provincial governments at the recent meeting of the National Finance Committee.

In reply he said: "It is the intention of the government to introduce at the forthcoming session of Parliament legislation designed to allow debtors with obligations governed by the law of Canada and containing the gold clause to discharge their debts by payment of the face amount thereof in legal tender."

Should the decision of the British court be applied to Canada it would mean that all bonds of the Dominion and provincial governments would be under Canadian law regardless of where payable, and therefore would not be covered by the protecting legislation in the United States.

Quiet Trading With Close Irregular on Wall Street Market

Foreign Exchange

Associated Press
New York, Jan. 6.—Prices shuffled along indecisively through the stock market proceedings today.

Selected oils, utilities, rails and specialties pushed upward while steels, coppers and other leaders back'd away.

Concern was still evident over the automobile strike, although Chrysler and General Motors stiffened as federal conciliators put forth efforts to bring about a settlement.

Transfers were around 1,900,000 shares.

A little attention was paid to European activities in connection with the Spanish war and many traders continued to stand aside.

Bonds and commodities turned in a rather uneven performance. Foreign currencies were quiet.

Stocks pointing upward during the greater part of the session included Amerada, Barnard, Texas Corp., Pure Oil, Ohio Oil, Continental Oil and Great Northern.

Backward most of the time were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward and International Harvester.

NOT MUCH HAS COME out of Germany in the last few years that the balance of the world has felt like cheering, but one official decree has been issued that contains a great and constructive idea. All literary and theatrical criticism has been abolished and those who think that they know more about painting and writing than the artists who do it are told to show what they can do themselves. In other words, put up or shut up.

Naturally, this is a silencer, for it is one thing to point out somebody else's blunders and quite another pair of sleeves to give a perfect performance ourselves. Any penny-a-liner can show you just what is wrong with the construction of Shakespeare's plays. Every armchair strategist who never even smelled gunpowder knows just where the high commands blundered in the Great War. And the men who know exactly how to balance the budget are those who can never live within their own income.

Of course, criticizing our friends and neighbors and the way in which things in general are run is our favorite indoor and outdoor sport, and our style will be terribly cramped if we have to keep mum until we show how much better we could do it. But, still and all, it is not to be denied that it will make the world a more peaceful place in which to live.

In particular, it will make for domestic harmony if the critics on the hearth can be muzzled until they exhibit in their own proper persons the superiority of their tastes, habits and manners over our own. Many a family row will be saved if before father condemns John for being a playboy he can show that he wastes no time over golf and is not addicted to night life himself. Nor will mother make sour comments to Sustie about the kind of people she runs with unless her own group of friends are hand-picked. Nor will Sister Sally ask Mary where she got that hat and if her worst enemy picked it out for her unless she is perfectly sure that she never had a millinery brainstorm herself.

So far as husbands and wives are concerned, the substitution of performance for criticism will do away with divorce and usher in the matrimonial millennium. For most of the squabbles between married couples are over household problems to which they do not know the answer, but which each thinks the other should solve right off the bat.

Take wives' standard grievances against their husbands, for instance—that their husbands take them for granted and no longer keep up the high-pressure love-making that they did during courtship; that their husbands complain that they are tired and do not want to go out of evenings; that their husbands slump into their papers after dinner and sit up as silent as dummies; that their husbands do not furnish them with as much money as they want. Millions of men are married to women who are continually nagging them about one or the other or all of these shortcomings. But suppose before Friend Wife began criticizing her husband's weaknesses she had to go out and make good on all these counts and show that she is a better man than he is.

Suppose she had to show that she was so peculiarly constructed that she could continue to thrill and be romantic for twenty-five or thirty years at a stretch. Suppose she had to show that she could be gay and rested and sleep-seeking after a grueling day's work and still want to chatter after she had worn her tongue off persuading and jollying and arguing with clients and customers. Suppose she had to show that she was a better business man and money-maker than her husband. Wouldn't it stop many a woman's fault-finding with her husband?

And take men's standard grievances against their wives—that their wives are poor cooks and bad managers; that their wives are extravagant; that their wives get fat and dull and lose their allure.

Well, suppose before the husband got out his hammer for his wife he had to give a life-like imitation of what a wife should be. Suppose he had to show that he could make better bread than his mother used to make, suppose he had to show that he could perform some sort of a conjure trick that would draw good meals out of the air and keep the children's shoes from wearing out and the butcher from sending in any bills. Suppose he had to show that he could do a hard day's washing and cooking and baby-tending and still look like a Lady Love at night. Would husbands be so critical of their wives?

Suppose before father criticized mother for letting the baby howl he had to show he could stop it, and before mother blamed father for letting the adolescent children run wild he said: "Show me." What future forbearance there would be. It is a great idea—that of showing you can do it before you criticize the way the other fellow is doing it.

Uncle Ray's CornerThe Story of China—Old Religious Beliefs

At about the same time Confucius was teaching in China, another famous man was at work in India. He was born a prince, and went by the name of "Gautama" (also spelled "Gotama"). He spent most of the years of his long life preaching to Hindus and others in his native land.

awake. Long is a mile to him who is tired. Long is life to the foolish who do not know the true law (of Buddhism).

"A person who masters himself is greater than one who wins a battle against a thousand times a thousand men.

Let us live happily. Let us not hate those who hate us.

"Let a man overcome anger by love. Let him overcome evil by doing good. Let him overcome the greedy by being kind. Let him overcome lies by telling the truth."

Buddhism did not spread to China until about 500 years after the death of the Buddha. Then a Chinese ruler invited missionaries to come from India and teach the meaning of the faith.

Some of the Chinese people liked the Buddhist teachings, and within a few hundred years the religion spread far and wide. Thousands of men became monks or priests, and great numbers of monasteries and temples were built. The temples were of the pagoda type, ad are common in present-day China.

The Buddhist church has split into many branches, and the beliefs of one branch are not quite the same as those of another. There are certain commandments, however, which are common to Buddhists in general, and these include:

"Thou shalt not lie. Thou shalt not steal. Thou shalt not drink alcoholic liquor. Thou shalt not be stingy. Thou shalt not be angry."

AIR MAIL IS THE CHEAPEST

It Is Also Speedier and More Convenient, Post Office Department Proves

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—Contrary to popular impression, air mail service in Canada has proved actually cheaper, as well as speedier and more convenient, than ordinary mail service, post office department figures showed yesterday.

Air mail costs in the last complete fiscal year were $275,971, while postage revenue on mails carried by air was estimated at $353,048.

Establishment of air mail service has invariably resulted in a marked increase in volume of mail conveyed, particularly parcel post, department officials stated. Mail is carried at ordinary postage rates on most routes, and slightly higher for parcel post.

BY DOG TEAM

Comparative costs of air mail service and slower methods have been illustrated in the winter service started nine years ago along the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Before that, mails were delivered by dog team, a trip taking three weeks.

Now, a trip by plane takes as many hours, and at slightly more than half the cost.

The contract for ordinary mail service over a 1,500-mile route in the Mackenzie River district was awarded to an airways company. In competition with a land transport company using a boat in summer and dog teams in winter. For seven years this service has functioned efficiently, probably playing a large part in the opening up of that part of the country, since mail contracts are generally recognized as the basis of commercial air transport.

If the land transport company's offer had been accepted, the cost today would be approximately $100,000 a year more than the existing air mail service, because of the great increase in mail volume after the establishment of the air mail service there, officials said.

The trip which formerly took seventy-two days by land, now takes two or three days by air.

IN MINING AREAS

In the mining areas of southern Manitoba and northern Ontario, the same increase has been experienced.

So much so, in fact, that the per capita consumption of mail in those air-served mining areas is now said to be far in excess of the per capita consumption even of such thickly populated areas as Toronto and Montreal.

Air post rates on parcels were increased slightly to curb an abnormal volume. Such articles as sides of bacon, bags of flour, sacks of potatoes, never regarded officially as potential mail matter, have been switched to postal delivery instead of express and general carriers because of the speed of the mail service. Great congestion resulted, threatening to diminish efficiency in handling letter mails.

So a slight increase in rates was placed on parcel post by air, but without apparent effect on the rising volume of regular air mail handled.
